

Customizable Module for Airborne Servers

The Intel® Pentium® M processor, designed into the small footprint form factor ETX, is deployed in a network server for military and commercial aviation. The requirement defined high performance processing and low thermal characteristics to multiple link interfaces for communications. The eTX-Lx15 module, drawing low wattage, supplies sufficient processing power to support up to 30 users of the network in a commercial aviation environment.

<http://www.dtims.com/products/etx/etxlx15.html>

